Kaizen Product Configurator enables companies to quickly meet their sales margins, and also process orders fast. There is no limit to product types or configurations; we deal with all kinds of customizable products and services. The configuration software facilitates a natural increase in revenues and simultaneously reduces costs through automation of many e-Commerce processes. The configurator software can work on standalone basis, or in seamless combination with our other e-Commerce software, such as the Product Catalog.

Here are some highlights of the Kaizen Product Configurator:

- No training is required to use the Kaizen Product Configurator since it is highly intuitive.
- It is easy to deploy and integrate into your existing store.
- It consists of familiar web-based functionalities making it easy for the general public to use.
- It is an interactive way to "try on" products.
- It has robust security features that let you control access by user.
- It is custom-made for your business.
- Its intuitive GUI means that any external users can adapt quickly and easily to the functions of the software.
- Since your product configurator is custom-built to your specification, every product at your site or webstore will be fully represented in the configurator, making it an attractive tool for genuine online shoppers.

A product configurator depends to a large extent on logical workflow. Kaizen's Product Configurator is built to accommodate the most effective process for your business environment. Your customers will have fun using the virtual aspects of the software because it allows them to easily, accurately, and quickly select those features or options that they want in the final product. That also means that all kinds of products can be quickly converted into their order, thereby significantly improving your bottom line.

Show your products in their best colors using Kaizen's product configurator service.
